Higher Education Newsletter

The mission of the Saginaw Chippewa Higher Education Department is to encourage and recruit students to pursue higher education as a means to strengthen personal and community development.

Online Class Tips

Do you struggle with online courses? Consider these tips while your classes have switched to an online format.

- Hold yourself accountable: Check in with yourself daily. Ensure you are checking your online classes everyday to keep up with important assignments.
- Have dedicated study blocks: Just as if you were in class, dedicate certain time blocks throughout the week to focus on each class.
- Eliminate distractions: finding a quiet place to work, turning off the TV and mobile device can be a big help when it comes to being successful in online work.
- Take notes: Just like in in-person class taking notes can help you retain information better because you're rewriting the information in your own way.
- Take breaks: staring at a screen for long periods of time can be really daunting on your brain. Taking small frequent breaks can help refresh your brain and make studying easier.
